

Doug Nathan's report

On Wednesday, January 4th, 2012, Evan Brooks, and his boat driver, Doug Nathan, ventured forth to the depths of Lake Roosevelt, in search of the elusive Walleye. IT WAS COLD. While the rest of the world had a warm sunny day of 50 degree temps, the lake had a thick layer of fog over it that never did let the sun warm it up. The temp never did get out of the 30's. Never the less, these two brave souls went forth and caught one walleye. One whole fish, although a nice fish, still only one fish. They fished across the lake from Seven Bays, downstream from the Big Rock, dragging Jigs on the bottom (where else?). Sam H. showed up, so Lunds were well represented in the few boats that were out.

Burgers were great at the Fort Spokane store as always.

Catch a fish, you'll feel better for it.
