

Doug Nathan report:

A beautiful day at Eloika Lk. Sun shining, little breeze blowing, birds singing, and the fish biting, well, a couple of them anyway. The lake produced it's usual fare of little bitty fishies, until the amazing Bill Johnson put his green Swedish Pimple through the ice, and the rest is history. Actually their was quite a "tussle", as the fish put it's pectoral fins around some significant weed growth, and refused to let go. It took Bill and fishing guide Tom Fischer 15 minutes to get the fish to release by tickling it. The fish was returned to it's family.
